create an exception for revisors bills, as introduced by whoever is  Chair  of  Exec Board, and then you move on to perhaps other people who have other responsibilities  that  what  might  cause them  to  be nearly forced to introduce more measures.  So while it sounds good, it might be popularly "acceptable",  I  do  not believe  that it is something that would work practically for us because we would, individual members certainly would be able  to use  other  provisions  of our statutes to accomplish the goals.
And another thing that comes to my mind now,  I  don't  remember how many bills I have this year, but certainly less than 12.  If there  was a 12-bill limit, old George would introduce 12 bills.
Those 12 bills would  be  comprised  of  things  that  had  been brought  to  me,  or  things that I had found were problems, and then I think in my simple, little country mind I could  conceive ideas  from  which  to  introduce, if I introduce 7 on my own, I could introduce 5 shell bills to use possibly for other reasons, by amendment through the  committee  process  or  whatever,  for ideas that might come up.  So the possibilities of circumventing a  bill  limit  are nearly as endless as the mental processes of the 49 members.   While it  probably  would  play  good  in  the papers, I'm not so sure that it would work as well as envisioned when  it  came...if  and when it came into practice.  Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

SPEAKER WITHEM:   Thank you, Senator Coordsen.  Senator Bohlke.

SENATOR BOHLKE:   Question.

SPEAKER WITHEM:   Question has been called.  Do I see five hands?
I do.  Question before the body is, shall debate now cease?  All those in favor vote aye, opposed vote nay.  Have you  all  voted on the question of ceasing debate?  Record, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK:   25 ayes, 0 nays to cease debate, Mr. President.

SPEAKER  WITHEM:    Debate is ceased.   Senator Schimek, you are recognized to close.

SENATOR SCHIMEK:  Yes, thank you, Mr. President, members of  the body.   I don't usually vote to cease debate, but I did on this one because, as I said at the beginning, I  probably  will  pull this  amendment  anyway,  and  that's  what I intend to do here.
Main reason I brought it is because, one, I  wanted  to  suggest the  idea  of  linkage  and  perhaps  making  some  things  more
