

Department of Motor Vehicles and the SS Department, will include the number and type of license erroneously suspended or revoked. That's all that my amendment does.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Senator Chambers, I could swear that you said that somebody wasn't going to get to you for something so inconsequential as not paying child support.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Let me explain that. I had said I'd leave a sucker dead, I said I'd be in prison for something much more serious than the inconsequential matter of not paying child support. I meant I would be in prison for homicide. And compared to homicide, not paying child support is inconsequential.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Yes, but I, I guess I just wanted to clarify that because I can't accept that not paying child support is inconsequential. And you know as well as I know that it often has very dire results for the children that child support's meant to protect. But having said that, you and I don't exactly agree on the definition of wickedness either. (Laughs) I don't, I don't see this bill as wicked, and we could debate that for quite a while. But I, I agree with you. I cannot support the Lindsay amendment. And I would like to take a look at your amendment, which, in fact, does reinstate the language of the bill. I think that contrary to what Senator Witek said, that we would be burying our heads in the sand if we didn't ask for a report on the consequences of the legislation that we pass. It, it is simply one more step in the process of making public policy. How can you judge whether the policy that you've made is good or not unless you have some feedback on it afterwards? I don't think this should be a difficult report. I don't think it should be costly. I don't think it should be lengthy. I think it should be a report that simply gives us some idea about numbers. Now, like Senator Chambers and Senator Beutler, I think maybe it could go farther than the language stipulated in the bill. I don't know that I agree with Senator Chambers' language and I want to ask him in a few minutes about that. But it doesn't matter if every senator reads every report that comes across their desk, as long as some of the senators read some of the reports and, and by and large we get them all covered. But even beyond that, it's important that the public have that information. These reports aren't just for us, they're for the public at large. How do, how does the public participate in the
