not nearly as simple, can't be effectuated nearly as simply as outlined in her amendment. There has got to be some implementing details about what the Director of Motor Vehicles does when he gets a contempt order, when he...how long he waits, what procedure's he uses, what hearings there are on the revocation of the license in the event of a contempt order or does a contempt order overcome everything, all procedures? I mean it doesn't lay out anything other than to say we will do contempt power orders. But I think what we need to talk about finally here is the position this bill is in now and it is all because of our rules and the filibustering techniques and this is what...I want to tell you honestly, the way it is. The Beutler amendment is an attempt to put the bill in a form in in response to what we heard on the floor the last two days. If we take the Beutler amendment off the Witek amendment it will go two or three amendments down. There will be a long argument on the Witek amendment, probably Senator Chambers, since it has a whole number of omissions in it procedurally will attempt to put those in with amendment to the amendment and the amendment to the amendment and the amendment to the amendment to the amendment and the amendment to the amendment and the amendment to the amendment and the amendment to the amendment and to amendment and the amendment to the amendment and the amendment to amendment and amendment to amendment and it will noon by that time, and we will not get to the amendments that you all were telling us the last couple of days we should consider. The bill will come off the agenda and you will have left eight to twelve million dollars laying on the table. You will have left eight to twelve million dollars that should be paid by these people and would be paid by these people if we could put this technique into place, and you will just leave it there, wasted eight to twelve million dollars that should be paid simply because we can't get everybody together on every little detail. I'm a detail person. Usually I really want to get into details but there comes a practical time in the process when you need to say, you need to look at the bigger picture and say, isn't it in the end the children that we are worried about...

PRESIDENT ROBAK: One minute.

SENATOR BEUTLER: ...isn't it in the end the mother who is trying to keep a family together on one income, who may be on welfare because she is not getting her welfare payments. Isn't this in the end what we are trying to get at, and shouldn't the refining
