

February 14, 1996 LB 1002

in the next ten years because our Supreme Court's never ruled on this issue, we make this exception, we do what I think the law is in almost every other state where the court has ruled, and there are a number that the court have ruled, that we have the statutory exception for the charitable trust. In other words, the property that was put into the trust was disposed of at that time and the legal ownership was transferred to the charitable trust. Thus you don't have to worry about remote dispositions. If we don't do this, I assume that Father Flanagan's Boys Homes and all the other charitable trusts that are holding real estate, somebody is going to have to go to court, go to the Nebraska Supreme Court, spend the time and money to do this, and on the off chance that our court would rule the wrong way, then you've really got a mess. And so what we propose to do with this is put an exception for charitable trusts. Senator Landis, for your knowledge, I assume if someone has a question we could do the ultimate to them, we could have John Gradwohl come and visit them for an hour. That would be punishment worse than, yes, worse than having your teeth drilled upon. And if all fails, I suppose, Senator Lindsay, we could have Bill Dago (phonetic) talk to them and that would certainly convince them of the necessity of the bill. The rule against perpetuities is serious. It's a very difficult concept if you begin to study its intricacies. But the bottom line is this exception I don't think destroys the "gifting" procedures in this state. I think it protects people like the Boys Home and other charitable trusts from running into a possible violation because of the court not ruling in this state. I would hope that we would accept this exception and would urge the adoption and the advancement of the bill. Thank you, Mr. President.

SPEAKER WITHEM: Thank you, Senator Kristensen. Senator Lynch.

SENATOR LYNCH: One question if I could, Mr. Speaker and members. I didn't know our State Auditor taught in law school.

SPEAKER WITHEM: Senator Kristensen.

SENATOR LYNCH: Did you say Breslow? Or, oh that was Bredlow (phonetic)?

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Gradwohl.

SENATOR LYNCH: Oh, Gradwohl, okay, I'm sorry.
