

before the Appropriations Committee and it's hard to figure out what they're talking about and track dollars, are any of you all so naive as to think when you create this superbureaucracy you are not going to have subdivisions made within that bureaucracy, you are not going to have the same fracturing, you are not going to have the same division, the bickering, the battling, the turf war, the seeking favor with the Fuehrer. You think that's not going to happen. You know it's going to happen. And when Senator Wesely quoted Machiavelli, he should have gone on to read a little further, not just in that one chapter or segment but where the main thrust of what Machiavelli always said is you have to know where you are, you have to know where you are going, you have to know how to get there, and you have to know what to do. You can't just say bring about change. You have to know what it is you intend to change, how you're going to change it, and how you propose to bring it about, and if it is a change that's so radical that the people who are going to be affected will resist it, the only way you can implement that change is to eradicate all opposition and move to that location yourself and rule with an iron hand. Otherwise, there will always be the inclination of those people who have something forced upon them to foment rebellion and eventually they will overthrow you because you're attention will be distracted eisewhere by those you are trying to control someplace else. Seeing how these can resist you, and you will have rebellion everywhere. So before you try to implement one of these radical changes, you better know what you're doing. You better get some education. It's one thing...

PRESIDENT ROBAK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...to just say words because it is easier to be witty than wise, it's easier to be clever than correct, and if you read this bill, you will see what the Governor is trying to do is make the Legislature do what he can do right now in terms of solving these problems that he says creating a superbureaucracy will do. It will not solve the problems. You mean to tell me that the Fuehrer, well, he's a Reich Fuehrer, is going to have more power than the real Fuehrer. Which one of Hitler's subordinates had as much power as he had? So if the Governor can't control them, how is this secretary going to control them? The Governor has the power under the constitution and laws of this state. Think about what we're being asked to do. I want the record to be clear on my position.
