

SENATOR CROSBY: Time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...and he pointed out...

SENATOR CROSBY: One minute. I'm sorry, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you. She was going to steal my time.

SENATOR CROSBY: I beg your...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Senator Will, I see you're about to help me.

SENATOR CROSBY: (Laugh.) I'm sorry.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: He made it clear that if somebody has an abundance, an over abundance, and you have need, you can take from that person. That's what Jesus established. And Jesus predated Robin Hood. He didn't ask that man, could he have that corn. They went in there and took it. If it had happened in Blair, at the home of the man who went out there with a thirty ought-six, 'cause some kids were taking down his mailboxes, they wouldn't have had Jesus around to hang on a cross, 'cause that man would have erased him for stealing his corn. But these are the realities that people on this floor don't want to face. They go to conferences, they go to these little groups in their district and they talk about gangs, we got to fight gangs, you got all these chiselers on welfare, you got...

SENATOR CROSBY: Now time. Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Bernard-Stevens.

SENATOR BERNARD-STEVENS: Thank you, Madam President. The issue that I'm struggling with, and I'm taking Senator Chambers for a moment and placing him outside of the issue that I'm struggling with, because I don't...right now we have a question, we've already got two. I don't...I suspect there aren't the votes in the body to take one or both of those out again, I may be wrong on that. By the way, I didn't vote for the two. There may be.... The question will be simply whether we have three or two, and we certainly could have extended discussions on that. But I do get concerned in regards to adding the third one if, in fact, in the short-term it won't...it won't make a large
