

dispute on who we're going to take out. And I'd yield the rest of my time if you want to help me with that point.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Well, thank you. Thank you, Senator Kristensen. It seems like every, well not every day, but periodically I will, I will have someone write to me and say, you know, why can't, why can't I buy, buy out this contract, you know. I'm tired, I'm worn out, I'd like to get out. This is an avenue for them to get out. And I know that a lot of good school districts, good school districts, have a lot of older teachers. They are good teachers, but maybe, maybe this is why some of the school districts are having such big budgets is because they're top heavy on this type of teacher. Senator Robinson would like to have a little of this time if I can sublet the rest of Senator Kristensen's time here to Senator Robinson.

SENATOR WILL: Thank you, Senator Janssen. The subletting is up to Senator Kristensen. Senator Kristensen, would you yield to Senator Robinson? Senator Kristensen would like his time back.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: There's a real reason for doing this. It limits the...no. Senator Janssen, I, would you be willing to do this with me because there's some points in here that are pretty good, and particularly the judgement issue is one I'd like to work on. And I hate to do this to you, but would, would you be willing to pull this amendment if we could sit and look at that judgement issue between now and Select File?

SENATOR WILL: Senator Janssen.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Yes.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Because there is some good points to that and I...the lump sum payments in terms of policy may be a good one or a bad one, but if you'd do that I, I'd be very willing to see if we couldn't get that amendment towards the top on Select File for consideration. If we can just have a few minutes to look at it because it kind of came up on me reasonably quick.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Senator Kristensen, being the admirable Danish decent that you are, yes, I would love to do that.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Thank you. I'd appreciate that. And you
