

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, I meant thank you, Senator Jensen. I'm going to complete that thought. Here we have a situation, and I can stand up here and just talk about anything I want to. And people know so little about the situation that they don't know whether I'm telling the truth or not. But let me tell you this, when you're playing Russian roulette, there's a possibility that there could be a cartridge in the chamber, and there's a possibility that if I pulled the trigger that it's going to go into your head, if the gun is against your temple. So if you don't know, you're unsure. But I will tell you this much, I'm not bluffing on what I said, and I have reason to believe that the merger is not going to go through. I'm not privy to conversations that Senator Brashear had with the big shots at Union Pacific. When I saw the name Ron Burns I thought they were talking...

SPEAKER WITHEM: Time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...about our Speaker.

SPEAKER WITHEM: Senator Brashear. Senator Wesely, you're recognized to close on your amendment.

SENATOR WESELY: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd ask for a call of the house.

SPEAKER WITHEM: Question before the body is, shall the house go under call? All those in favor vote aye, opposed vote nay.

ASSISTANT CLERK: 9 ayes, 0 nays to go under call, Mr. President.

SPEAKER WITHEM: House is under call. Members, please return and record your presence. Unauthorized parties leave the floor. The house is under call.

SENATOR WESELY: Senator Withem, I could go ahead, if you'd like.

SPEAKER WITHEM: Senator Wesely, please continue your closing. You have four and a half minutes left.

SENATOR WESELY: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, members of the
