

things for the record and let it stand as it is. Mr. President, I don't know how we would do this. If there is somebody else...

SENATOR BERNARD-STEVENS: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...who wants to speak, maybe we can get together.

SENATOR BERNARD-STEVENS: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Vrtiska.

SENATOR VRTISKA: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I want to talk to Senator Chambers but he ran off before I got a chance to talk to him. Senator Chambers, can I ask you a question?

SENATOR BERNARD-STEVENS: Senator Chambers, would you yield to a question?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yes.

SENATOR VRTISKA: Senator Chambers, I've been listening closely to what you've been talking about and as I was listening, I start to think about the Constitutional Revision Committee that we had in place a few years ago. We didn't use a very delicate selection and my concern now is in fact if we...I'm guessing maybe that there was a feeling that if they did this it would have some substance to it. Well, apparently the way that that particular committee turned out, there didn't have...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Are you on because I can't hear everything you're saying?

SENATOR VRTISKA: Maybe I'm not talking in the microphone. That committee didn't seem to have the right mix for which many of us were sorry about afterwards. What I'm trying to bring out is with using this I would guess there's a possibility that they were looking at some type of a method that has substance that they...

SENATOR BERNARD-STEVENS: Senator Vrtiska, if you could just hold on for a minute. Members of the body, if we could hold down the noise a little bit, it is difficult for those to hear the discussion and it's picking up on the tape a little bit loudly so if you could hold that down, it would be appreciated.
