to ask Senator Janssen some questions because he seems to be the expert in residence on this bill.

SENATOR CROSBY: Senator Janssen, will you yield for questions?

SENATOR JANSSEN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Janssen, may one of these persons attend school full time under this bill?

SENATOR JANSSEN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: There is no limit to the number of hours such a person may take while attending full time?

SENATOR JANSSEN: No, there...yes, he can take as many hours as he wants to, or she wants to, but there is only allotted amount of money.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Janssen, what schools are off limits if they are supported by the state? For example, medical school and dental school and law school, are they off limits?

SENATOR JANSSEN: I believe they are. I think it's just the first four years of the...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: It only takes three years to finish law school.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Well, no, no, no, I mean your undergraduate, just the undergraduate.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Where does it say undergraduate because I've read this, and I probably skimmed through it and didn't see it?

SENATOR JANSSEN: I don't believe it says, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So you were throwing me a curve to see if I was paying attention.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Well, not necessarily. We are talking about young people here, though, and I don't believe that they would
