

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

February 1, 1999 LB 437

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Well, they're already...they already are one because they're a division of the county.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So this clarifies the fact that elected fair boards will also be political subdivisions.

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: That's correct.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: The only reason that the appointed fair board is a political subdivision is because it's an arm of the county?

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: That's correct.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So then, a caterpillar's leg is the same as the caterpillar.

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: You'd have to ask an entomologist.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: (Laugh) Thank you. I'm really having trouble conceptualizing what it is that we're doing, because a school district is not an adjunct to the county. It sits off here as a type of political subdivision with things that it can and cannot do, and we know what cities and counties are. But these items that we're talking about today are escaping my ability to get a firm intellectual grip on what we're talking about. It seems strange to me that an appointed board would have less stature than an elected board, except for the fact that the county, which already exists as a political subdivision, has said this board is a part of the county.

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Um-hum.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: It would almost be like saying that if...if these boards that the Legislature creates, to which members are appointed by the Governor, are to be described, they would be political subdivisions, by analogy. Am...I'm probably wrong though, aren't I, Senator Wickersham?

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Senator, I think maybe a closer analogy is the difference between code and noncode agencies.
