

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

February 2, 1999 LB 268

would acknowledge that they project an image which is not really them when they are dealing with somebody they're trying to impress because they're convinced that what they really are is not acceptable. So they have this idea of what it takes to be acceptable, so they are young actors and young actresses, and they are in a strain all the time. Then when they are found out, and what little relationship they had falls apart, it happens because they were not honest. What they need to understand is that it's foolish to put on an act for somebody when, ultimately, they are going to find out what and who you are anyway. And it might shock and amaze you to find out that there are people who will accept you for what you are. Then they could be honest, too. You all have a chance to outgrow that, but when you reach the age of the people in this Chamber, it's o...it's curtains, it's over. There will be no changing because they have gotten so entrenched and invested so much in that phoney position that they cannot change if they will because they are too afraid. What will so-and-so say? What will so-and-so think? Most of the time they are not thinking about you at all. I'm the only black person in this Chamber. Black people are treated worse than anybody in this country because of our race. But because of what I am as an individual, I'm the freest person in this universe. Nobody has a studded collar on my neck. Nobody jerks a chain and I jump. Nobody says come and I come; nobody says go and I go. Mine is more like the situation of the centurion who came to Jesus and said, I got a servant at home who is sick, and I want you to heal my servant. And Jesus said, okay, centurion, take me to your house and we'll see what can be done, and the centurion said, oh, no, that's not necessary. I'm a man of authority. When I say to this man come, he comes. When I say to this man go, he goes. With the power you got, you just speak the word and the job is done. And Jesus must have spoken the word, because when the man went home, his servant was healed. Well, there are some of us who direct devils and there are some of us who behave as devils who are directed by others. We're suffered to stay or we're cast out. My colleagues, unfortunately, play political games. They've got to cheese up to the Governor and protect him and pull his chestnuts out of the fire. And if you young people sit here and listen, this will be a...what is not a seminar, this will be a clinic for you in dishonesty because you will hear senators on one issue talk a certain way, then become something