whimpers, not one. So it falls to the man, who is the freest creature in the universe. I am not as powerful as an anthrax bacillus, but I am freer than an anthrax bacillus, because you can confine an anthrax bacillus in a test tube. You cannot confine me, and people have tried. Do you know there are members in the Legislature who want to dress like I dress? They want to be comfortable. When the heat hits us, because we're here 90 days, and heat starts acting on bodies as it does, and they're all locked up around the collars, got these pieces of rag hanging down in front, and these heavy coats which do not serve a function, they look at me with envy, and say, oh, I wish I could take this coat off, I wish I could take this rag from around my neck which serves no purpose, unless you don't have a napkin and you're dribbling down the front of your shirt, so you move it away, and after you've dribbled on the front, then you can cover it up with this rag. Or if you need to blow your nose and you don't have a handkerchief, Senator Bourne, you can just turn that rag...no, you got to turn it around backwards so that it doesn't show. And that is why sometimes when you see these people with these long rags in front of them and they don't have a stick pin, the rag is sticking to the front of their shirt. They didn't have a handkerchief, and that's what they have to do. But look at me, and there are some people who are critical, but what difference does it make. I'm reading that even these cruise ships are slacking up and making it easier for people to dress in a more relaxed manner on their cruises. There are the biggest businesses saying we're going to have days when people can dress casually. There is some prince in Sweden or someplace who is launching a fight against neckties. They are just slow in coming around. We have to be what we are, we ought to be what we are, and that's lighthearted. To come back to this main point about the children, I'm going to listen this session when issues come up pertaining to children. When Senator Dwite Pedersen, if...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...he gets his bill out of committee on taking away this counseling that happens at some of these schools, because he's hung up on that abortion issue, I am going to have fun with him on that bill. Senator Dwite Pedersen had better be ready, and you know the committee is going to advance
