they put in there "one hour", one hour. If it goes over one hour, done, they cannot do it. And you know an hour goes by swiftly. It doesn't take long to go through an hour. As we know on this floor we go through several hours very quickly; the time passes. So this is a deal with probably one subject and that's it. If there isn't a person at each site, there has to be a person at each site, the details have to be there, has to be open to the press. I mean we are going by the opens meeting law. And I don't know what else I can say, but the questions that have arisen, and I can see this is very important and we shouldn't just have things and restrict people and make things so people can't attend these meetings. I'm very much for open meetings. I've been there, I've done that for 35 years. And the public needs to be involved. And I'm the last person to want to shut the public out. I want you... I'll say that once more. I'm the last person who want to shut the public out. I think you all know that. So thank you.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you, Senator Cudaback, for your remarks. The Speaker certainly earned his money this morning, didn't he? It reminded me of an incident involving Armand Hammer, and he was...he studied Russian, but he didn't have the opportunity to speak it very often.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So,.... I just started. So he was addressing...he was addressing a Russian audience, and he was on the stage, and he tried speaking in Russian, and people were applauding. And then he sat down. And he said to his hosts, that was pretty good, wasn't it? And the host said, what do you mean? He said, well, what I said. And the host said, nobody out there understood a single word of what you said. He said, well, why did they applaud when I sat down. He said, their embarrassment was ended and they were pleased. But, Senator Kristensen, you did do a very good job, and I applaud you for how well you did. But I'm still on this bill now, and I'd like to ask Senator Schimek a question with reference to her committee amendment.
