effective bullets, and I appreciate and respect that. I want to talk a little bit about the woman who called you relative to her issue, and I want to try to eliminate that from being an issue in this debate. We have, when we passed the original seat belt legislation making it a secondary offense, I think it was in 1993, we did make some definite exceptions, and one of those exceptions was a person who possesses written verification from a physician that the person is unable to wear a occupant protection system for medical reasons. They are excepted, and I hope that that will deal with your constituent, or my constituent, whoever's constituent that called you with that particular reason. I've also had distributed to you for your...so you can read and see what...and I've lost one of my pieces already, but we have a letter from the...from the mayor of San Francisco, this is a copy that has been sent to me, sent to the Michigan State Legislature, as they were debating this issue. It's a letter sent by the Mayor of San Francisco, Willie L. Brown, Jr., telling you while he was Speaker of the California Assembly that he authored legislation that allowed police officers to stop a motorist and issue a citation if the police officer could see that the driver was not wearing a safety belt. And he states in this letter that the law, which at that time had been in effect for two years, that was in February of 1996, has been entirely successful. He has noted that seat belt use has increased dramatically, and this has simply saved hundreds of lives and even more injuries from occurring. And in this letter, he states that he has not heard of one single case of police officers using this lifesaving law as an excuse to stop motorists to harass them. In fact, as more California motorists have buckled up, our police officers have had to issue fewer seat belt citations each year, and he was encouraging the Michigan Legislature to pass the...pass this legislation. I think, once again, that this illustrates that the...

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR BYARS: ...the issue that Senator Chambers has brought before us, that I really think...I think he has made his point. I honestly feel, Senator Chambers, that I have refuted that as a point to object to this bill. I think there are any number of ways that you can be stopped now. I don't think adding this
