

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

March 12, 1999 LB 126

beards? Is that uncommon?

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: No.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you. Here's what the State Patrol says; males should not have whiskers, so they got to come in shaved clean as a chitling, and that's a giveaway. They've got to look like Donny Osmond. Females should avoid makeup, or if makeup must be used, it should be subdued. They are giving the description. You think these retailers are not going to get this, and you're laying out the profile for them. They are not as stupid as this Legislature is deemed to be by the liquor industry. Clothing should be casual, not overly dressy, tight or low cut. She got to come in there in some baggy overalls, hair stringy. If she uses mascara, she got to look like Reverend "Jim Bob" Bakker's wife, like she got spiders hung on her eyelids. Oh, that's right, it must be subdued. So if somebody young came in looking like that, then you can sell to them and don't even have to worry. Do not hesitate to instruct and advise the underage CI in appearance matters. But since you've got this list, you can look at it for yourself. I am going to tell Senator Schellpeper something about his amendment because he, obviously, has not read it or fails to understand it. What is left in this thing can be seen in line 22, starting with the word "compliance" and this is what the liquor industry insisted on: "Compliance checks not conducted pursuant to this section shall not be considered by the commission for purposes of suspension, cancellation, or revocation of a license pursuant to section 53-1,104." And you're looking at these suggested guidelines. You all know the story, if you've listened to me in the past, of Procrustes bed. That's this guy who would invite travelers into his residence to be given food and board, and after he fed them very well and it was time to go to bed, he took them to what is known as Procrustes bed. If you were too short, he'd hitch your arms and your ankles to a device and turn a crank and stretch you till you exactly fit; your head touched the headboard and your feet touched the end board, stretched you till you exactly fit. Then if you're one of these tall individuals, none of which we have as members of the Legislature currently, except perhaps Senator Cudaback, old Jim would come in and he'd play the piano a little bit for Procrustes, have himself a good meal. They'd discuss the joys of bachelorhood.