trouble than enough shortly. There's no way in the world that even the good operators out there, agricultural producers, can price commodities at a profit right now. A year ago, yes, the good operators had their corn and their wheat priced, before it was even planted in the case of the corn. You can't do that this year, folks. It is not going to continue on, unbridled optimism here, especially in the ag economy. We had a question about valuations and how those affected the situation. When we give them 100 million dollars of property tax relief and only 50 million of it shows up, that obviously that other 50 million was spent someplace else or possibly valuations. There are a lot of districts out in our area that aren't at the $1.10 levy cap, be honest with you. There's several of them. We're talking about one this morning that has a tremendous valuation and really doesn't get much state aid out there in Senator Pederson's district. I want to stress one other point, and I tried to follow the Legislature as best I could before elected, but one of them that's Senator Warner's quote. It's not a quote, but he was always for pushing efficiency and I tell you, putting more money into the state aid fund does not address the efficiency issue out there. We've been through it with the local schools. I served 12 years on a school board and, Senator Tyson's exactly right, there comes a time when you say enough, no more. The local taxpayers have to take the major share of the responsibility of these schools and I would assume this is going to get us over 50 percent of the state aid now as an average across the state going to support the schools. We are still able to take that responsibility out west. We take it very seriously and we're addressing it on a personal level out there. Sure it's going to be hard for kids to rid a few more miles on a bus and so on, but we're going to get it done. With that, I'll turn the rest of my time back to the Chair. Thank you.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator Baker. Further discussion? Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Mr. President, members of the Legislature, again, I must refer to my student back here, "Baron Tyson". Didn't he say that you should do a two-handed vote, which is to hold your nose with your right hand and punch the "yes" button with your left hand, voting to override, after giving all of the
