is an estimate. It isn't...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay, what's the estimate?

SENATOR JANSSEN: Estimate would be between six and eight thousand permits.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So six thousand times a hundred would be six thousand hundred.

SENATOR JANSSEN: (Laugh) That's right. You could say it that way.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay.

SENATOR JANSSEN: All right.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Now, do you think if we put the comma where we should in that it's going to give the State Patrol enough money to do all of these things?

SENATOR JANSSEN: I believe it will, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And if it does not, we would have people lined up trying to get this work done and there'd be nobody to do it. Is that where we will be?

SENATOR JANSSEN: Well, that...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Or would there be duties that need to be discharged which could not be discharged?

SENATOR JANSSEN: No, I don't believe so. They would...they would use the resources they have, Senator Chambers. You may have to wait awhile...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Do you think they might...

SENATOR JANSSEN: ...to take that training.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Do you think they might have to cut a corner here and there even?
