put to you that we have already abdicated in our duties, or we wouldn't be spending time on this poorly drawn bill. The abdication started several years ago when we were trying to please everyone. You know there's a story from...about Til Eugenspiegel. And this was Til and his father...

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR TYSON: ...were going with a jackass, that Senator Chambers was talking about earlier. They were taking that animal to the mill to carry some meal back. And as they were going along, people laughed at Til and his father, his father's name was Klaus, incidentally. They laughed at him, because here are two healthy people and a healthy animal, and they were both...all were walking. So Til got on the ass. And the first people they passed made fun of him, because here was his father leading along that jackass, and Til was riding on it. So Til got off and his father got on. The next people laughed at that situation, because here was this poor, little boy, and this healthy man on the ass. So they both got on, and people then laughed at them because...

SENATOR CUDABACK: Time.

SENATOR TYSON: Now you'll never know the rest of that story.
(Laughter)

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Schmitt. Thank you, Senator Tyson. Senator Schmitt, followed by Senator Kiel and Senator Tyson.

SENATOR SCHMITT: Yes, Mr. President, members. I just wanted to make one comment about the poll that Senator Kiel was taking about. I realize that was a poll that was taken by the Fraternal Order of Police. I think that information came from the lobby out back, probably, I don't know. But I could go out here today and take a poll, and get you 100 percent support from police officers. I could go out and I could take a poll today, and I could get you 100 percent against this by police officers. Polls are just personal opinions from people that happen to be called. They don't talk to everybody. But, with that, I want to yield my time to Senator Tyson, because I want to hear the rest of the story. (Laughter)
