everywhere. It basically takes a suitcase, some way to cook the material. They can go in and out, they buy the ingredients over the counter, they make it, and then they've got the ability to resell it quickly and make quite a bit of profit.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Time. Senator Baker, you are next to speak.

SENATOR BAKER: Thank you, Madam Chairman. I yield my time to Senator Chambers.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Thank you. Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Senator Baker. Madam President and members of the Legislature, I think we may be approaching the point where we can offer that amendment, so I will just say again that I appreciate the fact that Senator Peterson was willing to work to arrive at a change in the bill. And it's far from what would satisfy me but you can't always get everything you want, as I pointed out, and I want this to be an example of how reasonable that I can be. But I was commenting to Senator Brashear, the "Silver Fox", as Senator Chris Peterson was explaining all this that for somebody who's lived a sheltered existence she knows an awfully lot...an awful lot about the ins and outs of producing this drug. I took down a couple of the recipes she gave and I might, who knows, but I'm going to ask Senator Brashear a question.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Senator Brashear, would you yield to a question?

SENATOR BRASHEAR: Yes, Madam Chair.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Brashear, has the amendment been filed?

SENATOR BRASHEAR: Senator Chambers, it has been filed.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you. Madam President, that's all that I would have at this time. Thank you.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Mr. Clerk. I'm sorry. Senator Brashear, you're recognized so speak.
