1228, it certainly is dependent on that money that schools receive from the Lottery Trust Fund. Thank you.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Thank you, Senator Bohlke. Senator Brown, you are next.

SENATOR BROWN: Madam President, members of the Legislature, I think that the proponents of this legislation are on a bit of a slippery slope when they start talking about the...what the vote was and being consistent with the vote, and when the very legislation that they are attempting to get passed that we have this amendment to right now changes the way that the funds are allocated in a way that could be construed, as Senator Bohlke just said, as possibly meaning less money for the charities that...that people that were a part, apparently, of the vote. So I think that...that this entire piece of legislation has the potential of being at least somewhat at odds with where people were at that point in time, but I also would suggest that people's impressions or people's votes are not all...not something that remains the same, and I don't know that we can believe that it would be exactly the same result if that were posed to the voting public again. And so I have some real concerns about whether this underlying bill would do what the proponents are claiming it would do. And with that, I would yield the rest of my time to Senator Chambers.

My amendment changes that by striking that language and putting instead will receive "no more than" and it makes 6 percent the ceiling. I don't think they ought to get anything. Then they wouldn't sell them. If they think what they're doing is a positive good, why don't they become volunteers and help the cause by just selling them as a service to the public. Why don't they do that? Because they are moneygrubbers like everybody else, and when you make money off of other people's
