

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

April 20, 1999 LB 637

combat, in the U.S. Senate from the state of Nebraska and they are butting heads like two long-horn sheep trying to establish dominance. The question that they're battling over is whether ground troops of ground forces should be sent into Kosovo. Now, on the one hand is Robert Kerrey, who has a Congressional Medal of Honor, saying, no, don't go in that door, you'll never get out and it's not necessary. Then here's the junior senator, uh...

SENATOR BEUTLER: (inaudible).

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...oh, Chuck "Hagging", thank you, Senator Beutler, Chuck "Hagging", who was also in the military. So here they are. They get a distance from each other, they charge at each other, rise to their hind legs and, bam, those horns hit together. They're stunned. They back off. They see stars. Neither has gained the upper hand. So, being highly intelligent as they are, they do it again. They run at each other as fast as they can, take their front legs off the ground so that they can get more momentum as they drive with their back legs and, bam, those horns hit again. This time they're both a little weak in the knees in the front legs, so each of them drops his chin to the ground to try to get himself together. Then they sit back, because they have minions, and Kerrey's minions come to him and say, Bob, you are running for President, remember, so you've got to think about that. "Hagging" is working to get the "Attila the Hun Award" for wanting to do more in the way of having people slaughtered on the ground. So, with Kerrey busy running for the presidency and "Hagging" busy seeking the "Attila the Hun Award", they don't have time to look at the interests of the people in this state from which they hail. So what happens? Some people in the Legislature are trying to mitigate the damage done in Washington because the watchmen sent to Washington by the people of Nebraska have gone to sleep on their watch. Nay! Worse than gone to sleep. They have abandoned their posts. Kerrey is not anywhere to be found. "Hagging" is nowhere to be found. They can talk, both of them can talk about a bloody war going on in Kosovo, but neither of them has the stomach to deal with an issue that bears directly on the welfare of vulnerable citizens in the state of Nebraska. "Hagging" has not raised his voice. Kerrey has not raised his voice. The problem, when you want to judge people and give them