SENATOR SCHIMEK: I wouldn't venture to...I don't know.

SENATOR DIERKS: Well, I just wonder. You know,...

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Probably.

SENATOR DIERKS: ...if you remember last year, Senator Schellpeper and I had some disagreements on this particular issue and I was trying to support the people in my legislative district that had not done zoning, who felt a need for it and who hadn't up until that time because there were no threats. They didn't want government telling them what to do, but all of a sudden the threats were out there of this corporate mismanagement, or whatever you want to call it, and so now they're going to want to have some recourse. But I just am not...I just...I'm not sure that this is what this legislative body should be doing, is forcing people to do zoning when they may not want to do it yet, even though it's in the interest of DEQ and corporate hog America and all these sorts of things. Thank you.

SENATOR CUDABACK PRESIDING

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Dierks. Senator Chambers, on the Dierks amendment...or on the Kremer amendment, sorry about that, followed by Senator Smith, Lynch, Wehrbein, Beutler, Vrtiska, Schmitt, and Jones. Senator Chambers, on the Kremer amendment.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Cudaback, members of the Legislature, when the last two names you gave were Smith and Jones it sounded like a law firm which you ought to ask questions about, something like "Dewey Cheetham and Howe," (laughter) or that trio, "Colt Smith and Wesson." But anyway, to get on with what we're talking about here, I have to correct my friend in the Chair because he made a statement that people always make, you cannot have your cake and eat it too. You must have your cake in order to eat it, so you must have your cake in order to eat it. So maybe what they ought to say is you cannot eat your cake and have it too, but that's not correct because when you eat it you still have it. So, again, it's one of those statements
