table knew that I couldn't keep winning, your man knew that the next time I rolled those dice I could lose everything, yet he let me roll those dice and I rolled those dice and I lost. Now, because you knew more about odds than I do, I want you to give me my money back. And (laugh) for people who do like that, Senator Smith, since you're such a youngster, they have these jackets that don't...

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...have any buttons on the front of them, but they got belts and straps on the back of them and they button up the back and they put your hands in them and wrap those straps around you and cart you on off. What Senator Vrtiska is asking us to do is rectify unwise business decisions. If you choose to play a game by disregarding the rules of prudence, you suffer the consequences of your imprudence. I'd venture to say that this man went on and hired somebody to handle the books after this particular lesson, and $25,000 is not too much to pay for a course in business administration.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Vrtiska. Senator Vrtiska, on the committee amendments.

SENATOR VRTISKA: Just one statement I wanted, because I didn't get a chance to acknowledge to Senator Chambers and, Senator Chambers, I just want you to know that they overpaid in the years 1993 and '94, was not the $55,000 but in actual it was $25,000 that they were left...that's right. And the total amount was 55 over all those years, so I didn't want to leave the impression that they made $55,000 in taxes one year and I just wanted you to...I think you knew that, but I'm not sure everybody understood it, and I just wanted to correct...make the record clear. With that, thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator Vrtiska. Senator Crosby. Question is...the que...the request has been to call the question. Those in favor vote aye. Do I see five hands? Those in favor vote aye; those opposed nay. The question is, shall debate cease? Please record.

CLERK: 27 ayes, 2 nays to cease debate, Mr. President.
