SENATOR TYSON: No. For instance at Cargill at Blair, which is not too far from Senator Janssen's home, they take corn, wet millet, change it to a (inaudible), a beer, distill the alcohol from it, denature that alcohol by the addition of gasoline, and that's what goes into your tank.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And that makes ethanol?

SENATOR TYSON: That makes ethanol, yes, sir.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But before it's ethanol,...

SENATOR CUDABACK PRESIDING

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...you're saying it's ethyl.

SENATOR TYSON: Ethyl alcohol.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And if you drank that in that form, then it's a beverage, it can be a beverage?

SENATOR TYSON: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But you could not get that at any of these plants because it is converted or denatured on the spot?

SENATOR TYSON: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. Thank you, Senator Tyson. That's all that I have. Thank you, Mr. President.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Dwite Pedersen.

SENATOR Dw. PEDERSEN: Thank you, Mr. President and members of the Legislature. A couple of different things I'm going to say from my perspective as being a substance abuse counselor. Alcoholics are going to drink, no matter what the law is, in the car, outside of the car or what not, because they have to. When
