either one of them. And buying a car can be one of those situations, if people haven't done it before, or if they have done it before, where the more simplified the process can be the better it is. And if this that Senator Beutler is putting into the bill becomes a part of the law, should this bill be enacted into law, the purchaser will be able to know in advance what the total cost is going to be. Based on what I just said, I have to ask Senator Beutler another question.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator Beutler.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Beutler, the way your amendment is drafted, would it be clear that the purchaser will be notified in advance that the total cost includes this delivery by a dealer? So that it won't just say that it has been worked out between the seller and the dealer who is going to deliver. And the purchaser will know what that cost is when the car is delivered.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Absolutely, that's the intent, and I think that would effectuate that...that the amendment would effectuate that purpose.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay, so when the purchaser is given the final price, that includes delivery.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Right.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay, thank you. And I do support the amendment, even if, in its present form, it didn't go that far, I would still support it and we could work our way to it. But the idea of this amendment, I think, is excellent.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Bromm, on the Beutler amendment.

SENATOR BROMM: Thank you, Mr. Lieutenant Governor. I think the amendment is fine because I like the aspect of the seller being responsible for the charges for delivery. I would never want, in a transaction like this, for the purchaser to show up to pick
