LB 1285

wouldn't have to put armor around my back, because the ones who come after me come behind my back. I never see them, but fortunately I have a built-in protection. Mr. Osborne has shown himself to be a man of courage, in my opinion, not because he won all those football titles, but because on an issue that most politicians run away from 1,000 miles an hour, the death penalty, he has stated his opposition to it. He didn't have to bring that up. He could have hidden and he could have said what some of my colleagues say, I'm against it but my constituents...he said he knows people will disagree. So now if, on an issue as serious as that, which he easily could have run from, he has taken a bold, forthright position, he is a man that you can deal with, even though he and I have not seen eye-to-eye on a lot of things. Well, Senator Bromm is a man that I believe I can work with on this bill; Senator Kristensen is such a man. And I'm going to do all that I can using my powers of analysis, whatever they are, to see that we come up with some well-crafted legislation. And to repeat again, I'll even talk to lobbyists. They are people, too,...

SENATOR LANDIS: No?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...more or less, (laughter) if you view them from a very charitable point of view. I have a question though that I want to ask of Senator Bromm. Senator Bromm,...

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator Bromm.

SENATOR BROMM: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...do you believe that the first responsibility of the Public Service Commission is to see to the interests of the public that is being served by all these services that these companies would extend?

SENATOR BROMM: Yes, I do, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay, and that's what I wanted to get clear, because I kept saying that and I wanted to be sure I'm not making a presumption. Do you also believe though that these companies, since we're going to allow them to be in this state and be licensed,...
