SENATOR COORDSEN: One minute.

SENATOR SUTTLE: ...for the development and the recruitment and retention of faculty members and, in order to be able to reach their benchmark, they're going to have to double their efforts.

SENATOR BOURNE: Good enough. Thank you.

SENATOR COORDSEN: Thank you, Senator Bourne. Senator Bromm, please.

SENATOR BROMM: Thank you, Senator Coordsen. I've just received this handout from Senator Suttle, I believe, and it may answer some of the questions that I had, and that was basically, as I understand it, the university missed their targeted goal by one position for this particular target period. If Senator Suttle would answer or yield to a question.

SENATOR COORDSEN: Senator Suttle, would you respond, please?

SENATOR SUTTLE: Yes.

SENATOR BROMM: Senator Suttle, the goals that were established by the university applied to what year first? Was this the first year or the second year?

SENATOR SUTTLE: This is the second year.

SENATOR BROMM: Did they meet their goals the first year?

SENATOR SUTTLE: Yes, they did.

SENATOR BROMM: And do you know how many additional faculty that was, the goal that they met?

SENATOR SUTTLE: They...I think...no, I don't know specifically how many over they were. If you average out the two years, they are one above, but last year they're one below.

SENATOR BROMM: So the first year they exceeded...
