bracket and opposed to this bill is the mandate. And I question whether we should be telling the service stations out there that they have to use this. And it's probably strange for some of you thinking that I am opposing this being from the rural area and supporting...I've always supported ethanol and I still support ethanol. And I have never stood up here and said that ethanol was going to ruin your engines. I told you what the manufacturers said could possibly happen. But I see Senator Bruning is now coming back so I got a question for him.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Bruning.

SENATOR BRUNING: Yes.

SENATOR SCHMITT: I guess the question I have for you, Senator Bruning, when we're talking about mandates, would you support an amendment that would mandate 10 percent buffalo, 10 percent elk, 10 percent ostrich, 10 percent emu be sold in our supermarkets, our grocery stores, not just put on the shelf but 10 percent sold?

SENATOR BRUNING: You got a little lawyer in you, Senator Schmitt. Fine rhetorical flourish.

SENATOR SCHMITT: (Laugh) No, I wasn't trying to (inaudible) a lawyer. Would you support that?

SENATOR BRUNING: No, I wouldn't.

SENATOR SCHMITT: Why not?

SENATOR BRUNING: Well, I think there's a difference here.

SENATOR SCHMITT: I'm going to leave this body here shortly, and I've got five acres. I could raise a lot of emus if I could sell 10 percent.

SENATOR BRUNING: I hear there's good money in it.

SENATOR SCHMITT: Yeah, not like there used to be because you can't get rid of the product. I just wondered where you were on that. I wanted to throw that out there and let the body think
