trying to gather as much information as possible. It's my understanding that, obviously, there's...there could be some challenges between separating the call center from the SDU. And, I guess, I would ask the question of Senator Bourne, and I will yield him my time after I ask this question. What if we would put those two together? Approximately 50 jobs, it would open up the spectrum of where it could be placed approximately, and then, basically, centralize those but in rural Nebraska? And I yield my time to Senator Bourne. Thank you.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator Bourne.

SENATOR BOURNE: Thank you, Senator Smith. What Senator Smith has suggested is that we draft an amendment that would require that both the SDU and the Customer Service Unit be located in rural Nebraska. I think that's a great idea. Instead of talking about 30 jobs, I think we'd be talking about 50. But going back just to the call center, if you look at this handout that I gave out to you, it says, Employment Investment Requirements for Employment and Investment Growth Act, this was something that was handed out in relation to Senator Matzke's priority bill. There is approximately 70 counties in which a 30-person call center could be located and that would meet the requirements of the amendment that says that it would result in the hiring of a number of new employees equal to at least one-half of 1 percent. If you go clear to the second page, the last county, assuming that it's a 30-person call center, which is just an estimate, but remember that this is a federal mandate, so other states have call centers already set up, and with similar populations, so I think that we can, with some accuracy, establish exactly how many call center employees we will need. But, if you look at it, you follow down about half way down the page, and the last county that...well, excuse me, if you look at the second from the right column, follow down about, oh, a little over half way down the page, there's a 29 there, and then follow that over, it's Red Willow County. There are 70 counties in which this call center could be located. And, if you just read through there, I'm sure that everybody, pretty much everybody here from the western two-thirds of the state would recognize a county or two that they represent. So, I mean, if you want me to read the counties that this could be located in, I'd be happy to do that, but it's 70 counties, if
