be worked against those who would try to frustrate those of us who want some of that money to spend. Maybe they will get even less this session than what they've got before because the session ends after the sixtieth day. There are bills people want to have read on Final Reading, aren't there? Well, let's just start horse trading now, brothers and sisters. What is the rest of the session worth? Who will open it? Who will open the bidding? Senator Brashear did with two point something million dollars, and I think we ought to go from there.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Mr. Clerk.

CLERK: Mr. President, priority motion. Senator Jensen would move to adjourn until Tuesday morning, April 11 at 9:00 a.m.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: The question is, shall we adjourn?
