PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator Robak, on the Lynch amendment.

SENATOR ROBAK: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to explain to the body that the difference, keno is different from slot machines. Slot machines can take money directly. Keno is played from a keno worker. Slot machines drop winnings into trays; a keno worker pays keno winnings. Only one person can play a slot machine at a time. Keno is considered a power game meaning many persons can be on a game. Under this amendment, keno games cannot even look like a slot machine. They don't have spinning wheels, no handle on the side, no top light or candlelight. Slot machines do not require a ticket. Keno games require the player be given a tangible evidence of the consideration paid. Slot machines do not play with numbers. Keno requires the (inaudible) pick numbers to wager, have numbers picked for him. I would also like to tell the body that the payback to the players, whether it's keno or pickles, the payback to the player is, pickles, 75.6 percent, and keno is 76.1 percent. So whether you're playing pickles or keno, you're getting paid back pretty much the same. And I think people...I don't play pickles or keno, either one of them. I like blackjack myself so I don't know what that makes me. And I don't think that a casino or any of these games are going to make anybody be a compulsive gambler. That's an addiction. Alcohol doesn't cause alcoholism either. These are addictive personalities and the disease will manifest itself in another fashion. I agree with Senator Lynch, if you're morally against gambling, that's fine. With that, Mister, but otherwise don't call this a slot machine because it isn't and I do not believe that it causes addiction to gambling. Thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Senator Robak. Senator Janssen, on the Lynch amendment.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Legislature. Senator Jensen, I don't know where you got your figures, but we just received the latest figures the other day on what has happened to charitable gaming in Nebraska and it's down 10 percent last year. And I might tell you again that, on keno anyway, the cities or in the towns have to vote to let keno into their city. And I'd like to tell you about one town or one
