

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

April 10, 2000 LB 659, 1094

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But frayed collar and no collar gambling, which is sports betting, is illegal. It doesn't make sense. But Senator Smith is offering an opportunity to give a little money to help to some extent mitigate the disease that the society, itself, is perpetuating.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Robak, on the Smith amendment.

SENATOR ROBAK: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I oppose the Smith amendment for several reasons, but I think it's a pretty sneaky way to get some money for a gamblers anonymous fund, but it should have been a bill on...that stood o its own. But not only that, but what he'll be doing is taking money out of the Environmental Trust Fund and the Excellence in Education Trust Fund, and that isn't money that's just laying around there. That's money that was given to the Environmental Trust Fund through the lottery bill. So you think about that when you go to vote. If this is what you want to do with the trust fund monies, that's fine. I just...and I do agree with Senator Chambers. Everybody should be allowed to gamble or nobody, and I do agree with that, and I wish I'd a had an amendment to that effect right now. And it seems to me that keno is getting kind of a bad name here and Senator Chambers said keno was expanded gambling. I don't know why keno would be and pickles wouldn't. I don't understand the difference between the two in relationship to expanded gambling. But that's fine. The body has spoken. I think somewhere out in the glass walls back here, that was the reason why the vote went as it did, but that's okay too. But I will say, remember this bill will take the Smith amendment will take the money directly out of the Environmental Trust Fund. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator Robak. Senator Janssen, on the Smith amendment.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Thank you, Mr. President, members. Senator Chambers, we did address the illegal gambling devices this year. It was in the committee bill, I think it was LB 1094, where liquor establishments could lose their license on the first