

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

January 13, 2003

everybody to understand if our Committee on Committees caucuses are the same as our Exec Board caucuses. Now just to add one detail that she didn't put forth to you, you need to understand that this before you today deals only with the Committee on Committees caucus, just that one, because that one is governed by our rules. If and when you see fit to adopt a structure for the Committee on Committees, then there will be submitted to the Legislature a bill for the Executive Board change to parallel and duplicate the change you made by rule for the Committee on Committees. And we deal with the Executive Board by statute because the Executive Board is kind of a continuing organization that is the administration of the Legislature, not only when we're in session but out of session, and so almost everything having to do with the organization and structure of the Executive Board is set in statute. So we need to do two things to make this right. We need to pass a rule change and we need to pass a statute. But hopefully, for purposes of facilitating and minimizing debate, once we decide the way we want it here on this rule change, we can then follow through quickly with a statutory change and get that through the process quickly by simply doing the same thing. In structuring this particular proposal, I tried to stay with traditional notions that everybody has historically understood: Omaha metropolitan area, Sarpy County, by and large, all in one group; southeast Nebraska and the rural communities, Lincoln and the rural communities that have traditionally traded with Lincoln in southeast Nebraska in a second grouping; and then the third grouping being the remainder of Nebraska. Now, as you start to do this, everybody who's been here for awhile understands that there are edges here all over (laugh) the place, and in any particular year a particular senator may or may not want to be included in a particular caucus, may or may not have more or less rationale for being pleased or displeased with the way it's structured. But I hope that everybody will think in terms of organizing principles and what are meaningful, fair, organizing principles that we understand and would agree with, and that the public can understand and agree with. And certainly I think what we have before you today is a...two solid blocks, I mean they're really contiguous, solid blocks of geographic representation, so in that sense I think this is very, very good. The way it ends up, as you know, as the members who have been here know, 49 doesn't