officer or a member of the executive branch. And that's what this language is there to clarify. Basically it's just a clarification.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Well, as I was reading this, I'm wondering...I think the thing that's been confusing to me, as I read the new language, an employee of a political subdivision of the state who is not holding elected office, if I leave out...I think, to me, there's a definitive problem here. If I read it, an employee who is not holding elective office shall not be considered an executive officer, that...does that make it more accurate in its interpretation? And then you go back and say, which is a political subdivision of the state? I'm trying...I was wondering if you could put it in, practical aspects of what you're trying to get at, use an example of the office that you're thinking about. Because I think others are confused like I am, not certain specifically...does that, let's say, mean the employee of the Treasurer's Office could run for the Legislature, although...?

SENATOR McDONALD: Is that a political subdivision?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Well, not of the state, I guess.

SENATOR McDONALD: So it wouldn't be, wouldn't pertain to that person. He couldn't.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: What's confusing to me...

SENATOR McDONALD: We're talking about political subdivisions here.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: What's confusing to me is that the Conway decision is in this but it is not in this. And I would, I guess, maybe ask Senator Schimek to explain that once again, so that we're not sidetracked on an issue that is or isn't in this. I'm not...I'd like to have you use specifics, so we know exactly what we're talking about, Senator Schimek. I will yield the rest of my time to Senator Schimek, Mr. President. I would yield the rest of my time to...
