FLOOR DEBATE

March 5, 2003            LR 11

Bluffs? I would say it...Omaha, being the size it is, that probably four to one were Nebraska dollars other than...rather than Iowa dollars. So with that, Mr. Speaker, I look for the advancement of LR 11CA today so we can move it on to Select File and address some of the concerns or advantages that this bill...this constitutional amendment will provide to the state of Nebraska. Thank you.

SPEAKER BROMM: Thank you, Senator Janssen. Senator Schimek.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: On the amendment. On the amendment.

SPEAKER BROMM: I'm sorry, I couldn't hear you, Senator Schimek.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: There's an amendment coming up that I wanted to speak on.

SPEAKER BROMM: Okay. All right. Senator Beutler.

SENATOR BEUTLER: I would waive at the moment.

SPEAKER BROMM: Senator Tyson.

SENATOR TYSON: Speaking on LR 11, Mr. Speaker, just as kind of a sense of deja vu, in the 1950s they were tearing down perfectly usable buildings and they had taken it from their owners and they were giving it to people who were going to, quote, develop it, quote, and they called that urban renewal. And we chased that chimera for a little while, including creating some blank spaces that were never developed. But this was the political panacea for the time. Then we got into economic development and we spent hundreds of millions of dollars creating havens for companies. We gave them tax breaks. We built buildings. We built roads. We laid lines, power, utilities, and the net effect of that was and is we gave them a place to rest on their way to Taiwan and Mexico, kind of fuel for the journey. Now we have gambling and, God, it's a wonderful idea. If you want to characterize it, however, you could characterize it as the last desperate gasp of something that politicians think we can do to provide something. We're not too sure what, but generally speaking all it does is betray
