FLOOR DEBATE

Nebraska? I guess what I wanted to try to communicate, as far as what I thought it...the reason I thought it was a federal issue, is because I think that we don't know ten years down the road, we think we might, but we don't know ten years down the road what the earning potential of the University of Nebraska football team really is. The University of Nebraska football team has had forty...since I was born has been a successful moneymaking venture. But before I was born, the University of Minnesota had a successful moneymaking venture. They haven't really had one since. I mean they've generated revenue but we're talking about 1960 was the last time this team went to a Rose Bowl. So I think the difficult part about this is trying to gauge what's going to happen with Nebraska football ten years down the road. I mean we saw last year things can happen. It's a cyclical event. And the issues surrounding that can't be ignored. I mean we don't know that it's going to be a moneymaking venture five years from now, let alone ten. The other thing is Senator Chambers put up...brought up in some of his correspondence the idea that the NCAA is a monopoly. I think he's absolutely right. That's exactly what it is. College football is generally the monopoly, and the University of Nebraska, the University of Oklahoma, Texas, Texas A & M, Michigan, and Ohio State, these schools are not...this is not a free market. These schools exist only because they are able to compete with the other schools that are either in their conference or intersectionally across the nation. So the question is, how do we get to the idea that the...or address the idea that the NCAA is a monopoly? Maybe Senator Chambers' idea with this bill is the right way to get to them. I think...I thought from a public relations standpoint that's almost already been done. I mean I've had people calling me that live all across the nation, friends of mine, that said what is going on there? I mean the awareness has been raised. Now I'm wondering, from a monopoly standpoint, how do you quash that, I mean squash that? How do you get to the point where the Duke University is going to be dealing with this issue the same way as the University of Nebraska. Duke University's football team, since, I guess since I was born, has never raised the kind of revenue that Nebraska has. Will it ten years from now? Nobody thought that Kansas State's football program would ever generate any revenue? Now it is. The point that I'm getting at is, is
