FLOOR DEBATE

March 27, 2003 LB 208

thickheaded enough to stay in a hotel of a lobbying group doing that kind of stuff with that kind of stuff before the Legislature. Now am I the only one who will say these things? Yes. And if I were thickheaded enough to do it, somebody ought to stand up and say it about me and give me a chance to stand up having been called out and explain why I do it. But I'm telling you all, I don't think any of my colleagues would do that. I've deliberately picked an example that I know is out of the ballpark, at least I hope it is. Am I upset that this kind of trash legislation is out here? You'd better believe it. And the fact that we can be told that the county attorneys or the prosecutors did it and, therefore, was sent out here makes it worse. If the committee had struggled, and because they're not lawyers, did the best they could and expected us to help get the thing in shape, that's a different matter. But to be told that this is the work product of prosecutors? Now people were buzzing earlier and not paying attention to what was being said on this bill. As soon as I talked about the Venetian Hotel and running out to Las Vegas with ALEC, things got quiet.

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Did I inadvertently tell the truth? Did I mistakenly cut a hog, as it's called? And the time that I think I'm wrong I happen to be right? I bet if I said how many are going out to Las Vegas, maybe two or three hands would go up. How many are going to stay at the Venetian Hotel? Not one hand would go up. (Laugh) That wouldn't mean because they are not going, it means because they don't want to come clean. Come clean or stay away dirty. I've got to turn my light on one more time, Mr. President, because I feel like I'm kind of on a roll. You know that's in reference to dice and so forth. (Laughter)

SENATOR CUDABACK: You may continue.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Did you say me?

SENATOR CUDABACK: I did, Senator Chambers. Your light is next and this will be your third time, as you know.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Mr. President. Members of the
