board is not prohibited by this language from accepting testimony from somebody who may be negatively affected. And since this operation is not currently operational, everything is speculative. Everything is based on conjecture. Everything is based on projection. So whatever we refer to as a fact is not something that's existing right now. It's something that each side says either is going to exist or is likely to come into existence, or is not. That's all the questions I will ask you, because my time will run out, and I want to make a point or two on this. Members of the Legislature, too often when we are drafting legislation, we express our opinion about what we think the language means, but the language does not say that. And that's why we get into these arguments on the floor. I say "tomayto," Senator Connealy says "tomahto." I say, then I don't want to talk to Senator Connealy. I'll talk to Senator Redfield; she's more reasonable. I say "potayto," she says "potahto." Then I don't want to talk to either one of them, because neither of them understands the facts of life. And you know why I say they don't understand? Because they do not agree with my view and version of the facts of life. But whether it's "potayto" or "potahto" by pronunciation, or "tomayto" or "tomahto" by pronunciation, our pronunciation does not alter the nature and character of the object we are referring to, or trying to name. So when we lay out what we call facts, one person may say, I think that is...

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...a valid basis to deny a permit. The other one, looking at the same fact, will say, I think it is not valid. But the reality is that when you make a general statement like this in a statute and you have not given any indication of what constitutes the facts that should be in that statement, the board, or whoever is going to issue that statement, if it's the planning commission in an advisory capacity advising the board, the one issuing the statement is entitled to utilize his or her best judgment in setting out what he or she deems to be the facts of the case. Whether people like it or not, that is what is allowed under the language of this amendment. Thank you, Mr. President.
