research. Is that a contradictory position being held by this homeless derelict with liquor on his breath?

SENATOR BYARS: I don't think so.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Isn't that inconsistent?

SENATOR BYARS: I...I'm not sure of the inconsistency.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: I...I...I...

SENATOR BYARS: I...I...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: If you take your time...

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...and take a deep breath and then begin to speak, I think you can correct your stammering, because it is not something that you suffer from all the time.

SENATOR BYARS: That's true.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So just take your time. Now I'm going to ask the question again. If I were to say that I am opposed to any research using fetal cells, then I bring in a bill that mandates that children be vaccinated with vaccine developed through the use of those fetal cells, isn't that inconsistent on my part?

SENATOR BYARS: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Would it be inconsistent on the part of anybody who held the view, just like I held it?

SENATOR BYARS: Yes, it would.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Even if it were our colleagues?

SENATOR BYARS: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator, I appreciate your
