your light is next.

SENATOR AGUILAR: Okay. I want to clear up a couple...thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wanted to clear up a couple things. Senator Chambers, you made the statement that you didn't know how they could expunge the verdict. You probably know more about this than I do, but the term that they actually use in that situation is to set aside the plea of guilty. And I don't know if that helps you or not. But I wanted to set...I wanted to make that clear. The other thing...oh. Senator Chambers had made the statement also that he didn't understand why people hate these people so much that are doing drugs. I want to make a correction here. I want to make a correction here. I don't think anybody involved in this process hates anybody. These people are professionals that fully understand the problem of the people on drugs are there because of a disease, a sickness. And all they want to do is get them some help. They cannot get them help if they just sentence them to jail. Drug courts give them another option to get them some help. That's what it's all about. Maybe the guilty plea is set aside because it was not knowingly, willingly, or voluntarily given. Maybe the person did not have the representation by counsel. But to say that the person completed a program and therefore the guilty plea will be set aside, I'm not aware of that. Now, if they were going to be put on probation...but that's not what we're talking about here. If you complete the probation, you still have a guilty verdict on your record. You just didn't go to jail. You are not put on probation to expunge...and you had said they don't use the word "expunge," because that means you
