April 15, 2003      LB 435

mumbo jumbo you say up there, you may as well do the Walt Disney theme song, loony tunes, because that's what it's about. You ought to pray to Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse, and Petunia Pig for all the impact it has on your conduct, until you're worried about something in your rural area like an ethanol plant or the big businesses in Omaha. This guy spent all his time, based on what I read, going around causing trouble for people such as those on this floor and those who sit in palaces and churches and synagogues and mosques, because he said, you need to practice this stuff that you're talking about. You pray to God, whatever you call that one you worship. Well, how can you say you love that one and you hate these people around you? Why do you even call me Lord, Lord, and you don't do what I tell you to do? And he called them hypocrites. He even called them the equivalent of SOB's. He called them sons of vipers, SOV. A viper was the worst thing you could call somebody, and that's what Jesus called people. Ye sons of vipers, who warned you to flee from the wrath to come? That's what you are. You're not even a snake; you're the son of a snake. That's...I'm quoting Jesus now. I'm right in the Bible, dealing with Christianity. And people got angry, especially the medical industry, because he not only didn't have a doctor's degree, he not only didn't use medicine, he healed people just by speaking a word or touching them. And you know how upset that would make doctors in hospitals. He's cutting into their profits. And people like those on the floor would tell him, well, don't worry, we'll find a way to put him in his place. Then the bankers, the money changers, had control of everything, including the church house, and to demonstrate it a story was told about them buying and selling animals in the church house. Because Monfort and all these other big packers control everything, so they could sell their animals because they control the preacher. He said what they needed to have him say about their operations. So this guy, who wound up being betrayed for 30 pieces of silver, went in there and he was outraged. He had delusions. He thought he was the Son of God, and he told people that's who he was, and most of them just laughed behind their hand, until he started cutting into their money. Then they started taking him seriously. So you know what he did? He took these tables that had the money on them and turned them over, drove the animals out of the temple, and took that whip and applied it to the
