Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

April 16, 2003 LB 435

know I'm dealing with stones. I know it's an uphill effort that we're undertaking. It always will be in any Legislature anywhere in the country when we're talking about doing something to try to help those who are on the bottom rungs of the ladder, or haven't even made it to that first rung. Out of sight, out of mind, but I don't feel that way. The ones that most of the people on this floor feel the need to protect are plenty able to protect themselves, and the proof of it is they can impress so many legislators into their service. But who cares for the poor? They're the ones in the unmarked graves. They're the ones who die unloved, unmourned, unknown. Potter's field is not the name, as far as I know, of an individual who owns it. That's the place where you dump the dregs of society.

SPEAKER BROMM: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But they are human beings. They have dignity. They may have had it stripped to some extent, but by virtue of being human there are certain considerations they are entitled to, and this body is not willing to accord them that. I cannot force the body to do it, but I'm going to argue and battle every time I get an opportunity, and I will not be deterred, I will not be discouraged, and the wind will not be taken out of my sails. I'd like to ask Senator Cunningham a question, and he probably can't answer it before my time is up. When the federal government increases the minimum wage, you probably will go out of business altogether then, won't you?

SPEAKER BROMM: Senator Cunningham.

SENATOR CUNNINGHAM: Probably.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. Thank you and I'm...

SENATOR CUNNINGHAM: That was a joke.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...and I'm glad.

SPEAKER BROMM: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Brown.

SENATOR BROWN: Mr. President, members, I will be not supporting
