April 17, 2003 LB 265

retrieve the homeowner's gun and shoot the homeowner with his or her own gun. Officers trained or presumably trained in the handling of firearms have been disarmed and shot with their own weapons and some of them killed. There's a guy named...I wish I could think of his name, but he is an actor. It's not Sean Penn...or maybe it is, but one of those kind of guys. He had a car. In his car was a pistol and he has a license to carry a concealed weapon and keep it in his car, and his car was stolen. Senator Thompson had talked about that to us the other day, and this happened just since then. In fact, it may have been in Saturday's newspaper. His car was stolen, his pistol was in it, and the article pointed out that he had a license to carry a concealed weapon. So the car thief wound up with a weapon also. This kind of nonsense, this foolishness, can do nothing but sow mischief in a society that is so violence-prone anyway, that is so terrified of everything anyway. You do not need to put a loaded gun in the hands of somebody who is that shaky, who is that afraid and has so little control over his or her emotions. I would ask Senator Tyson a question, but he would tap-dance away all of my remaining time and wouldn't answer the question, so I'm not going to do it at this point. But when I have a full five minutes again, there's a question that I'm going to ask him and I hope he'll run out of gas tap-dancing before he can run out of my time and he'll have to answer the question. But the thing that I wish we would keep before us at all times is this question: What compelling reason, if we were talking to a group of high school students, could we give them for saying it's good policy and good sense to have laws that allow people to go around with hidden weapons? Senator Tyson, the one question I will ask you is this: Is it possible that a person..

SPEAKER BROMM PRESIDING

SPEAKER BROMM: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...who had gone away to the service or started school late could be an enrolled student in a high school who is...and the person is 21 years old or older?

SENATOR TYSON: (Microphone malfunction) Is it possible?
