to strike that. "Beginning October 1, 2002, the State Treasurer shall place the equivalent of twenty-eight cents of such tax in the Cash Reserve Fund." I would like to ask Senator Wehrbein a question.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Wehrbein, would you yield?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Wehrbein, is there a popular name for Cash Reserve Fund that people often employ?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Probably savings account.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: All right. What is the rainy day fund?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Savings account.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Would that be this Cash Reserve Fund?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Yes, Senator.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So all of those things have the notion of something like a cushion or a fallback if things don't go like...

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Slush fund. (Laugh)

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...we want them to go? Oh, thank you. I like that even better. (Laugh) Thank you, Senator Wehrbein. Members of the Legislature, I'm saying we should put a little more slush into the fund, beyond the date in this statute. While Senator Wehrbein is on his feet, here's the question I would ask him. Senator Wehrbein, if this language were not to be stricken, what happens to this 28 cents after October 1, 2004?

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Wehrbein.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: It's due to expire, Senator Chambers, at the present time.
