Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

April 23, 2003      LB 759

Little Miss Muffet sitting on her tuffet was envious of Warren Buffet because he fared sumptuously every day. And Little Miss Muffet had to fight the spider for what she was going to eat, and the spider beat her to the punch one time, so she ate the spider. Got a little more protein and could have gone to that restaurant I described to you all earlier. And I bet those rascals in that restaurant would have the nerve to get upset if I swatted a fly and it fell on that bloody meat they were eating. They may as well eat the fly. They and the fly have the same taste. There was a program on the radio, some of you may be old enough to remember it: Poor...or, Young Widder Brown. Some nod they remember Young Widder Brown. Well, tax Young Widder Brown but don't tax King Midas where everything he touches turns to gold. How about the old woman who lived in a shoe, she had so many children because she didn't know what to do. That's why we need to give some...

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...sex education in these schools and teach these children what to do. Then when they grow up they won't be old widows with so many children they don't know what to do with them. Stop them from coming here in the first place and we won't have abortions taking place at the rate that they do. There are a lot of things tied into this taxing of food because what we're really talking about is class structure and how those who are considered of the lower classes are looked upon with contempt and everything that they do is viewed the same way. And it's my job to try to stop some of the ramifications of those particular contemptuous views, and I intend to do it. Thank you, Mr. President.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Janssen, on AM1447 to FA1327.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Thank you, Senator Cudaback. Members of the Legislature, yes, Senator Chambers, I do remember Young Widder Brown. I remember listening to that program on the radio as a youngster. A lot of us know what it means to be poor. When I was a little boy, we lived off of what my mother would raise in the garden and the milk from the cow. Yeah, it was tough but
