tax, but this one here will affect them and so it might be a little different. But I'm not unhappy with that either. But when we entered into this process, that's why I kind of supported Pam Redfield's bill in that she had a tax and the tax was going to be on everything and the amount was going to be lower. But where we're headed now, in a situation where I don't know how we're going to figure out what is taxed and what isn't unless we call the Revenue Department every time we buy anything and get a ruling from them, because that's I think where we're going to have to...where we're headed with this. I would agree with Senator Bromm that we need to take a look at our entire tax picture and we need to do that very quickly. Not only do we need to do that to have someone, and we have some great economists in this state, to look at whether we should be on a one-third, one-third, one-third basis, or how that process should happen, but along with that I think that we here in the Legislature need to look at our process also. I've been Chairman of Health and Human Services Committee for the last five years. Is a...are those agencies, do they come to us? They go to the Appropriations Committee. We don't see what the budget is until we get the proposal by the Appropriations Committee on those issues. We don't have an opportunity to look at those and to see whether they're appropriate or if they're not, what the priorities should be. That's all done by Appropriations. But, yet, we in the committee are responsible for that. Is there something wrong with that system? I think there is. I think that Natural Resources should look at all of those agency things before they ever get to Appropriations, or at least have some tie-in there. We don't have that. And so here we are, again on the last few days of the session, trying to make a budget and revenue for the state for the next coming year, and all we're doing is keep chipping around and make it more and more confusing. That, to me, is disturbing.

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR JENSEN: The fairest tax is when everybody participates and everybody puts into it, and any time that we start picking and choosing what we're going to tax and what we're not going to tax, it just adds to that confusion and the people get very upset with that, and I think that's what is happening. Should
