Committee bills, do you know approximately how much money is left out there that will have to be made up between the bills and how much we've cut out of them currently?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: You the $354 million that we're starting with? The gap, is that what you're talking about?

SENATOR MOSSEY: Yes. Like, for example, in a lot of bills, like, we cut out repairs,

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Oh, yes

SENATOR MOSSEY: ...or excluded a lot of things. And that all has to be made up in the end. I was just wondering if anybody has an idea of exactly how much money out of all those bills that's been gutted is out there that will have to be made up.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: I think it's in the neighborhood of 260, depending on what stays in that bill. You might ask Senator Landis. I don't know whether Senator Landis is here.

SENATOR MOSSEY: Just the amount of money that's been cut out of those bills so far?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: No, you mean the revenue? Excuse me, I mean, I thought you were ask...

SENATOR MOSSEY: Right, the money that's been cut out of the bills. Like, for example, we started out with a cert...

SENATOR MOSSEY: Pardon me?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: I think it's about 260 left in.

SENATOR MOSSEY: I mean the portions that the bill started out with, and then the portions that the bill ended up with. How much...?
