be applicable the same as though it were a violation of section 60-6,196 or 60-6,197." So in Section 16, which starts on page 46, it talks about what will happen with a person's license. I'll just read it. If such person...any person convicted of a violation of section 60-6,196 or 60-6,197 shall be punished as follows. If such person has not had a prior conviction, such person shall be guilty of a Class W misdemeanor, and the court shall, as part of the judgment of conviction, order that the operator's license of such person be revoked for a period of six months from the date ordered by the court. Such revocation shall be administered upon sentencing, upon final judgment of any appeal or review, or upon the date that any probation is revoked. If the court places such person on probation or suspends the sentence for any reason, the court shall, as one of the conditions of probation or sentence suspension, order that the operation...operator's license of such person be revoked for a period of 60 days from the date ordered by the court, unless otherwise authorized pursuant to a statute, and shall also include as one of its conditions the payment of a $400 fine. I'd like to ask Senator Kruse a question.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Kruse, would you respond to a question?

SENATOR KRUSE: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Kruse, under this language I read, if the person had a prior conviction, the period of revocation is six months, based on line 21 of page 46. But if the court places the person on probation or suspends the sentence, then the person's license will be revoked for a period of 60 days. What's the difference in those two things? I'm trying to keep up with this as I go along.

SENATOR KRUSE: Well, Senator, you're into material which I have not worked on, because this is the present statute. There's nothing that we've done with it. That's the way it's set up.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But what...so then this language on page 50 about the city ordinance comes directly from existing law. Is
