regulations and the fact is it would not apply to those calls originating in Nebraska.

SENATOR BEUTLER: All right, so I make the telephone call to get on the federal list. And do they tell me that I'm on the Nebraska list or how do I know that?

SENATOR SMITH: Yes, there are...they are already equipped, I'm told, to notify, you know, if that is, indeed, the case, to say, okay, this is also the Nebraska list, not just the federal list. So they are already equipped.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Okay, and then do they give me information about where I call to place a complaint?

SENATOR SMITH: Yes, I would assume that would take place, yes.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Okay. And if I call and make that complaint and it's...and the call has originated within the state, what do they tell me?

SENATOR SMITH: They would have a complaint process. I can't tell you exactly what they would tell you should you file that complaint. But, I mean, they would take it from there, and if it meets the conditions of being able to crack down on that, they will do that.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Well, and therein is my concern. If they call in and they complain and they say that...what will they say to the people, that a certain company called me?

SENATOR SMITH: Yes.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Okay, and if that company turns out to be within Nebraska, then in that case what will the feds do, simply ignore the complaint or will they notify automatically the Public Service Commission in Nebraska. I mean that's a very important link, I think, from the consumer's point of view. You don't want to have a consumer calling the national list and not getting any feedback and not knowing what happened to his complaint, or even that...I mean the consumer is not going to
